COOL UNDER THE COLLAR — Robert (Bobby) Baker pauses for a drink of water while coolly refusing to tell Senate investigators about his role in an alleged $25,000 kickback to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund in 1960. Baker cited the 1st, 4th, 5th and 6th Constitutional amendments as grounds for refusing to answer questions.

Once Around Roundtown

ALTHOUGH Pickaway County will not see too large a deer harvest (one was killed in the county last year), Circleville restaurants proved to be popular with red-dressed nimrods early this morning.

Enroute to the more productive deer range in southeastern Ohio, many stopped here for their early morning meal. Deer hunters are easily recognized. They travel in groups of two to four, wear red in some form or another and have a hunting knife strapped to their belts.

NO ACCIDENTS were reported in the city yesterday evening, despite a combination of rain, sleet and snow that pelted down. Police commended drivers for using extra precaution.

WHILE the cat's away, the mice will play. Mike Clark, an assistant in the county engineer's office, decorated the ground-level floor office for the holiday season "while Engineer Henry T. McCrady was out of the office" yesterday. The decorations include a fully decorated tree and an electricity-operated set of logs "burning" in the fireplace.

Planner Asks Canal Link Be Endorsed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The proposed canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio River has received strong endorsement from a Youngstown expert who says the state needs the canal for future economic growth.

The expert, Jerry Knight, executive secretary of the Youngstown Metropolitan Area Development Citizens' Committee, told the annual convention of Ohio County Commissioners and County Engineers:

"A balanced transportation system is necessary to our economic future."

He added that the proposed canal would put Ohio in a position to compete with other industrial areas now taking business away from the Buckeye State.

The cost of the canal has been estimated at about $1 billion. The route for the 120-mile canal, as proposed by Army Engineers, would be from Richer, Pa., on the Ohio River moving north to Painesville on Lake Erie. The canal would use the Mahoning River through Youngstown and Warren.

Counsel Calls Solon 'Liar' At Hearing

Shouting Match erupts During Baker Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bobby Baker hearings exploded into a shouting match today with special Rules Committee counsel Lennox P. McLendon calling Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a liar.

"You are absolutely, unalterably untrue in that statement," yelled McLendon, a white-haired 74-year-old attorney.

Williams had said that he had told McLendon he had additional information about government contracts handled by the McCloskey Construction Co. But, he said, McLendon was not interested in pursuing the information unless it involved Baker and other figures in the current hearing.

That's when the explosion came.

"Just a minute," shouted Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. "This is an impertinence such as I have never before seen. This is the first time an employee of the Senate has called a senator a liar."

"He has disqualified himself," Williams interjected that he did, too, make such a statement on full Friday.

"I deny emphatically any word of it," McLendon said. "There is not an ounce, not an element of truth in it."

Curtis continued to demand that McLendon remove himself from his post as special counsel. "I've got a right," said McLendon. "I'm not going to sit here and be publicly misrepresented."

Williams sat quietly while Curtis and McLendon exchanged sharp comments. During a lull, he commented that McLendon had a perfect right to state his understanding of the conversation.

Williams, who furnished much of the information that triggered the Baker probe, declared the Rules Committee might find it "very interesting" if it did look into various government construction projects handled by the McCloskey company.

The angry squabble took place while William K. Stewart, financial vice president of McCloskey Co., was testifying about procedures in figuring insurance premium rates.

Don B. Reynolds, a Silver Spring, Md., insurance man, testified Tuesday that a $35,000 overpayment by the McCloskey firm of an insurance performance bond was really a political payoff to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund. Reynolds said he was the "bag man" for Baker and contractor Matthew H. McCloskey in the deal.

Curtis and Stewart verbally tiffed over failure of the McCloskey company.

Robert Adkins Quits Job as Court Bailiff

Replacement To Serve As Probation Officer, Divorce Investigator

Robert E. Adkins, 238 E. Main St., today announced his resignation as bailiff and domestic relations investigator for Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Adkins said his resignation would be effective Dec. 31. He has served the county as bailiff more than 20 years and as domestic relations investigator since 1951.

His letter informing Judge William Ammer of his decision listed his primary reason as "the urgency to spend full time in the real estate and mortgage loan business." Adkins has been a prominent realty broker for several years in the Circleville area.

The letter continued "Needless to say, the compensation received from your office is hardly commensurate to the amount of time spent, the responsibility involved and the total benefits which would be received by future employment under the present plan or compensation or of any future retirement benefits."

ADKINS, who draws an annual salary of $3,400 for both positions, was first appointed to the bailiff's job in Sept. 1937, under the judgeship of his father, the late Judge J. W. Adkins. He served under the late Judge Meeker Terwilliger and Judge William D. Kaciff.

Judge Ammer said a replacement for Adkins would be named in the near future. Several are being considered for the position, he noted.

Additional duties and compensation will be in store for the new man, Ammer indicated. He said he has been negotiating with the Board of County Commissioners for an additional salary for the new bailiff who will also serve as probation officer for the Common Pleas Court.

Probation is now handled by the Prosecuting Attorney's office. According to Judge Ammer, there are approximately 90 persons now on probation as imposed by the court.

Peron Sent Back to Exile

SEVILLA, Spain (AP) — Juan D. Peron resumed his exile in Spain today after a brief and unsuccessful attempt to re-establish himself in South America for return to Argentina, the nation that cast off his dictatorship in 1955.

Brazil blocked Peron's plan and shipped him back on the same Iberia DC8 jet airliner that carried him from Madrid to Rio de Janeiro Wednesday.

The reaction of the Spanish government was uncertain. Peron's back-to-Argentina campaign could be interpreted as a violation of one of the terms of his asylum, a pledge to avoid political activity. But officials in Madrid said they understood he would be allowed to remain temporarily, "until a definite decision is reached."

Whatever the outcome, Spanish authorities seemed to be shielding Peron from public attention.

The airliner that carried Peron back across the Atlantic, scheduled for Madrid, was diverted en route to Sevilla, 250 miles southwest of the capital.

Informed sources said the Spanish government ordered the diversion to keep Peron away from more than 100 newsmen — Spanish and foreign — waiting for him at the Madrid Airport.

Peron, 69, got off in Sevilla and drove in a black limousine to a hotel, the Andalucia. The city's police chief was reported to have accompanied him. Police barred newsmen from the hotel.

There was speculation that, after a few days in Sevilla, Peron would drive to the residence he has maintained in Madrid. It was to Sevilla that Peron came when he flew to Spain from exile in Panama in January 1960.

Thousands of Reds Infiltrate South Viet Nam, Envoy Claims

EDITOR'S NOTE — A White House statement on Tuesday referred to increased North Vietnamese support of Communist fighters in South Viet Nam, but gave no figures on the extent of Communist infiltration. In this exclusive interview, the new South Vietnamese ambassador to Washington lists infiltration figures and gives his views on the military and political situation in his war-plagued homeland.

City 'Invite' To Red Grower Slowed by Diplomatic Snag

Efforts to invite a Russian pumpkin grower to next year's Circleville Pumpkin Show apparently have hit a diplomatic snag.

An outburst of international competition in the realm of pumpkin growing all started last month when an official Russian news agency labeled a 97-pound specimen grown in the Ukraine as "the largest seen before by anyone." This immediately touched off "not so" comments in pumpkin famous Circleville.

Record books here lay claim to a 135 1/2-pounder displayed at the 1963 Pumpkin Show. According to Mayor Ben H. Gordon,

Castro's Poor Relations Give Swiss Heavy Load

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The poor state of Fidel Castro's relations with a number of nations is causing headaches in an unexpected quarter — the Swiss diplomatic service.

Neutral Switzerland now represents the interests in Cuba of eight countries that have broken relations with the Castro regime. The United States, the first, in 1961. Argentina, Guatemala, Honduras, Chile, Brazil, Ecuador and Venezuela followed.

In 1960, Switzerland had an ambassador and a first secretary as its entire diplomatic staff in Havana. Now there are 3 diplomats and a team of clerks, typists and office workers.

By far the most work in Havana is done on behalf of the United States, which had large interests in Cuba before Castro took over.

"We have issued over 2,000 Swiss protection passports to American citizens still in Cuba," a senior Swiss official said. "But there are still a number who have not registered with our embassy in Havana."

The Cuban government recognizes the Swiss protection passport although it does not give the holder the rights of a normal passport.

An American law decrees that U.S. visas and passports must be signed by an official of an American consulate or embassy. As none of these are now in Cuba, any American whose passport has expired has to go through a complicated procedure to go to the United States.

With his Swiss protection passport, he goes to the Mexican Embassy. There he applies for a Mexican transit visa. With during the past three years and the flow continues at a stepped-up pace, Ambassador Tran Thien Khiem said today. The newly arrived South Vietnamese envoy said in an exclusive interview that the Ho Chi Minh Trail, passing from North Viet Nam through Laos, serves as the main road of infiltration. He was one of the triumvirate

Who Grows Biggest Pumpkins?

In a letter to Congressman Harsha, the State Department said it was unable to identify the Soviet citizen who reportedly grew the 97-pound pumpkin. In addition, it was pointed out that Soviet authorities very carefully select those citizens whom they permit to travel abroad, particularly to the United States.

Making the obstacle more meaningful, the State Department letter went on to say in part: It is highly unlikely the particular Russian grower sought by the Circleville committee would be authorized to travel to the United States unless he were the type who would be chosen by Soviet authorities as representative of Soviet society on the basis of political reliability and relative sophistication. Even for a Soviet citizen possessing such characteristics, however, it is difficult to obtain permission to travel abroad alone.

The State Department's correspondence to Harsha was not all discouraging, however. It was explained that should the local committee still wish to invite a Soviet pumpkin grower to Circleville next October, the invitation should be addressed to Mr. E. I. Melnikov, Agricultural Counselor, at the Soviet Embassy in Washington D. C. It was also explained that circumstances of the visit should be outlined.

Senate Vote Of Appointees Questioned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The possibility exists that the validity of the votes of three Republican members of the Ohio Senate in the Legislature's current special session could be questioned.

The three—Mike Maloney of Hamilton County, Max H. Dennis of Clinton County and Tom V. Moorehead of Muskingum County—were appointed to their present terms to replace senators who didn't complete their terms.

There could be some question raised whether their appointments, made under a 1961 constitutional amendment, amounts to election.

The amendment permits a caucus of senators of the same party as a departed senator to name a replacement, but it doesn't say that senators so chosen "shall be deemed to have been elected"—or words to that effect.

Minority leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, says some legislators feel the appointment amendment was not properly drawn. He said there have been some recent questions about whether Sen. Maloney has a valid vote, and any challenge presumably would apply to the other two serving by appointment.

Their votes could be vital to the GOP members, because a three-fifths majority is needed to approve a constitutional amendment, and the GOP majority, 20-13, just makes three-fifths.

along with Gen. Nguyen Khanh and Gen. Duong Van Minh which ruled South Viet Nam last summer before the formation of the present civilian government. How to stop the infiltration has been a perpetual worry of the Vietnamese general staff, Khiem said in the interview. He added: "We have been thinking about this for a long time and we are still thinking. If we are not able to stop the infiltration completely, at least it must be slowed down."

"We have Special Forces on the borders with Laos but there are not enough troops for this. Our biggest difficulty is the mountainous terrain which is hard to control."

Asked if stopping the infiltration would be decisive in turning the tide of battle in South Viet Nam, Khiem replied: "We do think that if we can succeed in stopping the infiltration it will have a very large impact."

The problem of infiltration was touched upon in a White House statement Tuesday which followed a White House meeting between President Johnson and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor. It said there was "accumulating evidence of continuing and increased North Viet Nam

Oops! BBC Cuts Ringo's Wrong End

LONDON (AP) — Beatle drummer Ringo Starr rested comfortably without his tonsils today while his British fans recovered from a severe case of post-operative shock.

"Ringo Starr's tonsils were successfully removed this morning," the British Broadcasting Corporation announced in its first newscast after the operation Wednesday.

Alarmed that the surgeons had knifed the wrong end of their idol, thousands of fans jammed the BBC switchboard. Hasty apologies were made in later newscasts.

"I misread the item," said announcer Roy Williams, "it happens to all of us and I bet Ringo is glad I'm not his surgeon."

The postoffice, which operates Britain's telephone system, put on relays of five girls to switch callers inquiring for Ringo's state of health to a recorded bulletin.

Ringo, 24, lay in red pajamas in a fifth floor room of London's University College Hospital.

One Briton who had no sympathy for him was Joyce Cullen, 36, across town in West Harrow. Her phone number is Byron 2332, just a slip of the dial from the Ringo bulletin service on Covent Garden 2332. Her phone rang continuously. "Ringo's tonsils?" she said. "They've made my life hell."

Ohio Senate Devises Own Election Map

Dems' District Joined to Area Of GOP Strength

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate has a new plan for congressional redistricting which resembles only vaguely that approved by the House of Representatives.

The measure was reported out of the Senate's state government committee Wednesday night over Democratic protests. It makes changes in almost every district outlined by the house.

The quick evening session which enabled the bill to be placed on the Senate floor makes possible a vote Friday.

The rules call for a two-day cooling off period and Democrats, who dislike the bill, refused to waive the regulation.

Noble County, home of Democratic Rep. Robert T. Secrest, would be moved into the 18th District represented by Democrat Wayne L. Hays. Fairfield County, where Democratic Rep.-elect Walter Moeller lives, would be moved the district where Republican William H. Harsha of Scioto County proved his strength a month ago by winning re-election.

Here's how the senate version differs from the present 23-district—one congressman is elected at-large statewide—arrangement and, in parentheses, from the House version:

1st, 2nd Districts—Essentially the same as now, both in Hamilton County.

3rd—Removes Butler County and the southwest and northeast corners Montgomery (Farmersville, Germantown, Miamisburg, Riverside, West Carrollton, and townships of Jackson, Jefferson, German, Miami, Mad River and Wayne); house version removes Butler and six townships of Montgomery (now Montgomery and Butler counties).

Steelworkers List Demands On Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Top policy makers of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union finish drafting today a list of demands they will present to the basic steel industry early next month.

The USW's 163-man international wage policy committee opened two days of secret meetings Wednesday after receiving recommendations from the union's executive board.

Despite the closed meetings and the reluctance of top USW officials to comment, The Associated Press learned that key demands will center on job security, greater employment and wage increases when the current contract is reopened after Jan. 1.

USW President David J. McDonald, who declined comment on the union's demands at a news conference after the executive board meetings Wednesday said:

"With the exception of the extended vacation plan, the whole blessed agreement will be opened."

Questions about the fight for the union's presidency, pitting McDonald against secretary-treasurer I. W. Abel, were brushed aside by McDonald. He has been head of the USW 12 years.

The election of officers for four years is Feb. 9 with votes to be counted by May.

McDonald and Abel have said policies will be kept out of contract talks. However, industry sources think otherwise.

Goldwater Men Benched in Talk Of GOP Future

By JACK BELL
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters stood on the sidelines today as Republican governors gathered here for a searching look at the future of their badly divided party.

About the only representative of the Goldwater conservative viewpoint scheduled to be on hand in this extraordinary session of state GOP executives is Gov. Tim M. Babcock of Montana. A supporter of Goldwater before the San Francisco convention, Babcock won re-election after moving away from the GOP presidential nominee during the campaign.

Progressive Republicans, including three Rockefellerers, were converging on Denver for a session that might produce some challenging statements but that seemed unlikely to provide the impetus to unseat GOP National Chairman Dean Burch.

Solidly supported by Goldwater, Burch will risk his $30,000-a-year job on a confidence vote in a national committee session Jan. 22-23 in Chicago.

Gov. Paul Fanning of Arizona, elected to the Senate to fill the seat that Goldwater will vacate in the new Congress, sent word that he could not be on hand for the meeting here.

F. Clifton White, regarded as one of the "real pros" of the Goldwater campaign, canceled hotel reservations, indicating he would not be on hand to defend Goldwater's interests.

But the Rockefellerers, who opposed the Arizona senator's nomination, were expected to arrive in force. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who did not campaign for the GOP presidential nominee, was bringing in a plane load of Goldwater critics.

Included were his brothers, Winthrop Rockefeller, defeated in his bid for the Arkansas governorship, and Laurence Rockefeller, a progressive interested primarily in conservation programs. The New York governor also invited Gov. John H. Reed of Maine and Gov.-elect John A. Volpe of Massachusetts to ride in his plane.

Significantly, Rockefeller was bringing along with him George A. Hinman, New York national committeeman who has urged that Burch be ousted and that the committee leadership be reorganized to represent the viewpoints of all factions of the party.

There seemed likely to be no spokesman present at this conference who represent former President Dwight D. Eisenhower or former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Goldwater has scheduled a summit conference with these two former leaders but the indications were that the GOP governors would chart their own course without reference to any such session.

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who has advocated Burch's removal, is chairman of the Republican Governors Association. Smylie accused Goldwater Wednesday of demonstrating "a dictatorial attitude" on the question of a change in the national GOP chairmanship.

Goldwater said he strongly opposes removal of Burch and added that the national committee doesn't have the votes to oust the chairman.

Sheriff Spangler attended the three-day convention of the Buckeye State Sheriffs in Columbus this week.

Also present at the convention was Dwight Radcliff, Pickaway County sheriff-elect.

Dog Licenses Now on Sale

Dog licenses for 1965 went on sale this week at 10 locations in Pickaway County.

Licenses are required by law for every dog three months and older. The fee is $3 for male dogs, spayed female and female dogs, and $15 for a kennel license. Dog owners who fail to purchase a license may be fined as much as $25 and court costs.

Unlicensed dogs are considered stray dogs and can be picked up and impounded. If a licensed dog is lost or injured the owner can be located within a few minutes by checking with the County Auditor's office or the animal shelter.

The ten places in Pickaway County where licenses may be purchased are the County Auditor's office in the courthouse; Martha M. Brinker, Ashville; James Sealock, Orient; Earl Rohrer, New Holland; Paul A. Goldhart, Commercial Point; Robert Riser's Grocery, Darbyville; Nelson Jones, Turlington; Life Shaw's Grocery, Era; Dunlap Co., Williamsport; and the Winfough Grocery, Five Points.

Dog owners may also obtain license tags by mail by forwarding the proper fee, a complete description and a self-addressed stamped return envelope to the county auditor.

Driver Files $30,000 Suit

A Washington C. H. man has filed a $30,000 damages suit in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court against a Richmond area woman.

Charles R. Starkey, the plaintiff, is seeking the judgment from Marcella Weber, Route 3, Richmond, for injuries allegedly received in an auto accident that occurred Feb. 15, 1964.

Starkey contends Mrs. Weber drove her auto left of center into the path of his truck "thereby being the direct and proximate cause of the accident." The accident happened on Route 3 near Mt. Sterling.

The plaintiff claims he suffered personal injuries, including a back injury, which have permanently impaired his earning capacity.

Starkey is represented by the Columbus law firm of Volkema and Wolse.

McCloskey, 71, former ambassador to Ireland, took the witness chair Wednesday and said Reynolds had lied.

"He hasn't told you the truth once," he said.

Baker, the man who Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said "could talk" and square the conflict in Reynolds and McCloskey's testimony, refused to answer questions about his role in the alleged kickback.

Reynolds told the Senate Rules Committee Tuesday he was the "bag man" for Baker and McCloskey.

He testified he wrote the performance bond for McCloskey's construction firm when it built the Washington, D.C., sports stadium and was overpaid on the premium by $35,000.

Reynolds said he gave Baker $25,000, kept $10,000 for himself, and that Baker was to tunnel the money into the campaign fund.

Baker is a former $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate Democratic majority. An earlier inquiry into his outside business activities by the committee found him "guilty of many gross improprieties."

The nattily dressed former page boy refused to answer questions 46 times Wednesday, invoking his constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination.

McCloskey denied heatedly any knowledge of the payoff deal described by Reynolds.

Cannon Wins By 84 Votes

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada's U.S. Senate race was apparently over today, with Democratic Sen. Howard W. Cannon the winner by 84 votes in a recount.

Republican challenger Paul Laxalt, Nevada lieutenant governor, said he would decide today whether to fire one last shot — a challenge of the outcome in the Nevada Supreme Court.

The recount, started in some counties Saturday, ended Wednesday.

The complete unofficial total was Cannon 66,907 and Laxalt 66,823. Laxalt asked the recount Nov. 25 after the Nevada Supreme Court certified Cannon the winner by 48 votes, 67,336 to 67,288.

The election of Cannon would give the Democratic party a 68-32 margin in the Senate.

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Treasury gold stores have dropped for the first time this year. The dip is slight but a much bigger decline in gold's role as backing for the dollar is taking place. In ratio to the Federal Reserve notes and deposit liabilities it is set up to back, the gold reserve has slipped much more than the physical loss of metal indicates.

The decline in U.S. holdings of the metal in October and November is laid to its use to sustain the dollar and the British pound in the financial crisis that hit a climax last week with a $3 billion bailout international fund for the use of the Bank of England as needed.

The U.S. Treasury has been very expert in halting a gold outflow this year, through an international agreement to protect currencies and reserves. But the balance of payments deficit continues — some $2 billion this year. And the threat of the use of these foreign-held dollars to buy U.S. gold remains.

Foreign governments and central banks hold better than $12 billion in short-term dollar balances that legally they could turn in to the U.S. Treasury for gold.

Its gold balance at the end of November was $15.4 billion, down about $200 million from the year before.

Excess gold reserves—that is, those above the 25 per cent required to back the currency—now stand at $1.9 billion, compared with $2.8 billion a year ago. The decline reflects the rise in Federal Reserve note and deposit liabilities much more than in the fairly minor loss of gold itself.

The gold reserve's role in the domestic economy will increasingly become an issue as opposed to the recent past when its role in international balance of payments got prior consideration.

Scouts Miss A Good Deed

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—School Supt. Raymond Perez of Springboro gave new Interstate 71, a whirl coming back from Cincinnati recently. He wanted to see the state's tallest bridge at Oregonia.

Perez crossed the bridge, then turned off on the Wilmington Pike Interchange and took a country road he thought led back to Springboro.

It didn't. He was lost.

But he spotted a troop of Boy Scouts marching in the opposite direction and figured he was saved.

"I'm lost boys," he told them. "I don't know where I am."

Their reply: "Sorry, sir, we're lost too."

2 Women Killed

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Margie Belle Wright, 70, and Bernice W. White, 62, both of Morral in Marion County, were killed Wednesday when their car skidded on snow-covered U. S. 23 five miles north of here and collided head-on with a semi-tractor trailer. Kermit Allen Self, 34, of Winston-Salem, N. C., the truck driver suffered minor injuries.

Convictions Upheld

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The 2nd District Court of Appeals Wednesday upheld the trespassing convictions of nine civil rights demonstrators stemming from a sit-down demonstration in a Dayton department store last year in protest of what the demonstrators called discrimination against Negroes in hiring practices of some downtown stores.

years. Some think the legal requirement should be lowered below 25 per cent before speculators take advantage of any nervousness as the limit is neared. Others think the gold backing for the currency should be dropped entirely as an obsolete concept.

Cary's Formula for Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — How does Cary Grant stay so young? This is the question that, since he makes no secret of being 60, is most often asked this durable star of the Golden Age of the movies.

After making more than 60 films in 32 years, he has only a few touches of gray to mark the inroads of three decades in Hollywood.

Grant answers with a kind of half-embarrassed, bantering seriousness queries as to his own formula for keeping young in spirit and looking trim and youthful in face and body.

"I don't know that there's any trick to it," he said. "I try to live in truth — and keep relaxed."

"I don't try to follow any regular program. I ride a lot, like to swim."

"I try to do what I want to do at the time. I don't eat many fatty foods, but I really don't know whether that's important or not."

"I eat only when I'm hungry, and read when I'm not. Sometimes I don't sleep for three days. Other times I go to sleep for the whole blinking week-end."

A talk with Grant is a ramble through many fields as he is a man with sprightly enthusiasms, interested in religion, art, and human nature, and one gifted with some humor as to his own place in the scheme of things.

In his own words, here is how he feels:

"Life is just an occupation of time. It's all a matter of what you do between getting up and going to bed."

"I don't have a great respect for people who pick up lines of friction in living. It's best to keep an open channel to the powers that be. You have to learn to rest on the arms of God or creation, and then everything will be all right."

"Man is afraid of his own power and inhibits it."

"The happiest time of my life? About now, I suppose, although I hope it will be happier tomorrow."

"My life has become progressively happier, because I've got rid of a lot of the blows my ego got in childhood. You have to learn to forgive your parents the things they didn't know, and be grateful for what they did know."

"I used to carry some emotional torches in my youth, but I tried never to bore my fellow man with them. I'd rather torture it out alone."

"The most important thing in life is getting married well, and I haven't been very successful at that."

"You have to use some deceit in this world even to make a living. But paradoxically, you will last longer, have a better life and be more contented — if you relax and be yourself."

"I try to free myself as much as possible from hypocrisy and the need to ingratiate."

"I like people who express themselves easily, people who are able to use their full natural powers and not defeat themselves through fear. I mean people like Billy Graham, Howard Hughes, Jan Peerce, Frank Sinatra, Dave Brubeck, Peggy Lee, Picasso and Ingrid Bergman."

"Ingrid is the most attractive person in the world because she completely lacks artifice."

"Although I recognize injustices and inequities, I have no crusades to lead myself. I rarely get angry. You only abuse yourself when you get angry anyway."

"The best moments people have together are probably when they are silent. Most sounds that people make are only forms of self-defense."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN AMERICAN tourist was having difficulty in London with words folks in those parts do not pronounce as they are spelled. "Remember," cautioned his guide, "that Leicester Square is called 'Lester Square,' that the Derby is called 'the Darby,' and that people here named St. John refer to themselves as 'Sinjin.' Furthermore, Cholmondeley is pronounced 'Chumley.'"

A few moments later the tourist saw a sign outside a theater which read, "No Strings: Pronounced Success." "I give up," he said—and flew to Paris.

Hotel tycoon Conrad Hilton, caught on the wing as he hastened to catch a plane, was asked by a persistent reporter, "Isn't there one bit of advice you can give young men hoping to follow in your footsteps?" "Yes," snapped Mr. Hilton, "They should always advise their guests to be sure to put the curtain inside the tub before taking a shower."

Chance To Throw Dice

By John Chamberlain

The other night I sat in with an earnest group of businessmen, representatives of a big national corporation with many branch plants, and some political pros who represented at least a couple of shades of the losing cause on November 3. The businessmen were puzzled. They were conservatives first and Republicans second, and not one of them regarded himself as an extremist. They wanted to know what they could do to advance their philosophy, preferably through the Republican Party. So they grilled the pros, and some of the answers they got were disconcerting.

One of the pros, who had been for Goldwater on a qualified basis (he thought the acceptance speech at San Francisco should have held out an olive branch for the Scrantonites), gave the businessmen a sharp rundown on the difference between Democratic and Republican problems of organization. The Democrats, he said, depend on organized labor for continuous help, and they can get the support they need from workers who go on living in the same community year after year. This enables the Democrats to dig in at the precinct level. Their men are trained, they can count on steady advancement in the organization, and they are subject to the discipline of good soldiers.

The businessmen, so the pro said, used to have the same sort of solid relationship to the Republican Party that labor now has with the Democrats. They took an interest in the local community, they could be counted on for financial support, and they supplied the party with workers who were willing to do the menial jobs of bell ringing, telephoning and the dissemination of literature. But, said the pro, all this was some time ago. Business, he told the executives in a sentence that struck home, is now organized on a national basis. The average junior executive who might be expected to do party work in behalf of a conservative philosophy now seldom stays more than a few years in one place. He will be in Ohio during one election year, in New Jersey the next year around, and in North Carolina after that. He won't be able to dig in at any precinct level forming enduring ties with people who stay put year after year in the same community.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Van Camp, Oakwood Place, returned home after vacationing in Hawaii.

Approximately 70 girls attended a skating party sponsored by the Circleville High School Girls Athletic Assn. at Circle D Recreation Center.

Bernard Tait, local Civil Defense director, announced that an application was submitted to obtain a 200-bed complete Army field hospital unit here.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Junior Woman's Club held a mock trial when members observed "Men's Night" with a dinner at the Wardell Party Home.

Larry D. McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McFarland, S. Court St., was declared Circleville's first baby of December.

Lawrence Mohn, Toledo, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Martin and family, Stoutsville.

Twenty-five years ago Officials of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Department announced that efforts were being made to obtain final payments on the farm program for approximately 500 farmers before Christmas.

Richard Plum, N. Court St., left for New York City as a delegate to the National Inter-Fraternity Conference held at the Biltmore Hotel.

Plans were announced for the Salt Creek Twp. Farmers Institute.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My father is 78 years old and is as stubborn as a billy-goat. He seems to forget everything that is told to him within minutes after hearing it. He also seems to want a great deal of attention. Is this what is called "second childhood?"

Mr. N.N., Tennessee

Dear Mr. N.: An injustice is done to the elderly when their behavior is compared to that of children.

The problems and the attitudes of the elderly are many, and sometimes exhaust the patience of those with whom they live. An understanding of the reason for their forgetfulness will perhaps arouse sympathy rather than irritability.

Many of the elderly develop arteriosclerosis and narrowing of the blood vessels of the entire body. Blood supply to the brain is sometimes diminished by these changes in the blood vessels. When this occurs, a very characteristic memory pattern seems to follow. They have an exceedingly short memory for recent events, suggestions and instructions. Strangely, they have a remarkable memory for the minutest details of events that occurred in the far distant past.

The need for attention usually reflects a desire to be an active participant in all household activities. Too often the elderly are displaced from their jobs and obligations after a long life of productivity and responsibility.

After the age of 78, perhaps your father has a right to be indulged with his "billy-goat stubbornness."

My family has been urging me to have an ear operation for deafness. I do not want to see an ear doctor without discussing it with my family doctor, to whom we owe a great deal of gratitude. I think he would be displeased if I consulted an ear doctor first, before telling him about it. Are these operations successful? I am 58 years old and one of three sisters with similar deafness.

Mrs. R.A.H., Ottawa

Dear Mrs. H.: All patients have a right to seek an additional opinion about any problem that concerns them. Doctors everywhere unhesitatingly suggest that patients be given the benefit of a specialist's advice if and when necessary.

The loyalty you have for your family doctor is characteristic of the bond of strength built on years of devotion between doctor and patient. This is too valuable a possession to be jeopardized by denying your doctor the courtesy of discussing with him such an important decision.

The family history of deafness may suggest the possibility that the condition is otosclerosis. Deafness caused by otosclerosis has, in the past ten years, been remarkably benefited by the Stapes operation. The percentage of success for the return of serviceable hearing is exceedingly high in carefully chosen cases of otosclerosis.

The combined thinking of your family physician and the ear specialist will determine the diagnosis and the best course to pursue.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fads — or trends, as they are called in television — infect public affairs programs as they do entertainment programs.

A few seasons back, the vogue was for the controversial, even daring, approach often accompanied by a strongly editorial point of view. Those were the days when NBC's "white paper" series tackled everything from Soviet leadership to public welfare philosophies and when "CBS Reports" worked with hidden cameras to expose a Boston bookmaking establishment.

Lately, it seems, the networks are all off on an armchair tour-kick.

Wednesday night CBS in a news department production called "Five Faces of Tokyo," gave us an hour trip around the Japanese city.

It was on the whole an interesting visit but the program was probably one of those undertakings that looked a lot better in blueprint than on our television screens.

The idea was to have five Tokyo residents from different walks of life and social classes show us their city from their viewpoints.

If the program had stuck with any one of these for the hour, it would have been much more interesting and enlightening. Five people were too many and much of the time it was hard to know whose eyes we were looking through.

Producers of NBC's "Mr. Novak" will start immediately hunting for a replacement for Dean Jagger, forced to quit the show because of a return of an ulcer condition. Jagger co-starred as a high school principal, Mr. Vane, while James Franciscus, in the title role, plays a young English teacher.

Recommended tonight: "The Defenders," CBS, 10-11 Eastern Standard Time; "The Seige," a drama with Robert Redford playing an escaped lifer.

Sheriffs Ask Prison Food Law Change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Buckeye State Sheriff's Association wants the next General Assembly to simplify the process feeding prisoners in county jails.

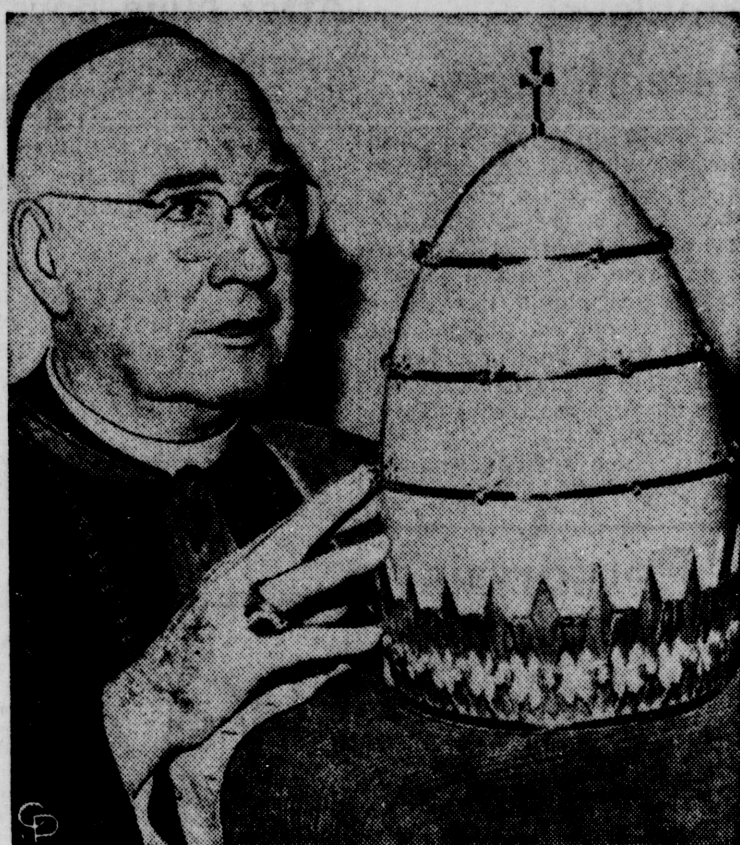

The association, in its annual meeting here this week, said sheriff's will make recommendations to the next legislature. They want to abolish the present requirement that sheriffs enter into contracts for food services and cooking.

Members explained there are conflicting statutes and practices now in use.

Sheriffs would prefer that they send their bills directly to county commissioners for food supplies and chef services. They also would like to see the 50-cents per meal maximum removed. The association pointed out that while large counties can feed prisoners for as little as 29 cents per meal, 50 cents is not enough in smaller counties with only two or three prisoners to feed at one time.

An association spokesman said it was hoped such legislation would ultimately lead to an end to the practice of hiring relatives for food service jobs in smaller counties.

New officers of the association are: Fred Heinzelman, Ross County, president; Bernard Keitr, Montgomery County, first vice president; Robert Campbell Summit County, second vice president; Carl E. Rose, Lawtary, and Donald Thompson, Fayette County, treasurer.

U.S. Faces 3 Alternatives in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Can victory be snatched from South Viet Nam's exhausting war only by a flight of bombers over Communist North Viet Nam?

Planners in Saigon and Washington have been weighing the possibilities of expanding the war outside South Viet Nam.

Since the Viet Cong war began draining blood and treasure in 1960, America has faced three alternatives.

The first is to get out altogether, turning over South Viet Nam to the Communists.

The second alternative — the one which has been followed up to now — is to shore up the Saigon government with money, supplies, arms and advisers, in the hope that Saigon will one day be able to hold its own.

The third is to move into the fight directly with U.S. combat troops and a frontal attack on North Viet Nam or even Communist China.

The first alternative and all its variations, including neutralization of South Viet Nam have been rejected by both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Hopes of winning by the second method appear increasingly forlorn. The Saigon government appears less capable of holding its own than it was 10 years ago when South Viet Nam became independent of France as the indirect result of a smashing Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu.

The third alternative, therefore, which could lead either to a new Korea or a third world war, has come under new scrutiny.

Among the supporters of direct attack on North Viet Nam is Dr. Bernard Fall, a noted French historian and author specializing in Indochina problems. Fall has argued for years that while the United States is tactically weak in Viet Nam it has strategic strength which should be used.

Fall says on the basis of his trips to North Viet Nam that the Hanoi regime is confident it can defeat the United States in the field of guerrilla warfare but that Hanoi fears American bombers. North Viet Nam has a small but growing industrial plant which is highly vulnerable to air raids and which Hanoi would hate to lose, he contends.

Some Pentagon and State Department officials believe Hanoi would call a halt to the war in the South if its industries were threatened.

Others have argued that at least Communist supply points and infiltration depots outside South Viet Nam should be bombed. Hanoi has charged in recent months that this is going on now, and Washington has declined comment on the charges.

One high Vietnamese official said:

CIA Chief Resignation Foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. McCone reportedly has told President Johnson he would like to be released from his duties as director of the Central Intelligence Agency in order to return to private life.

The reports, being heard in official circles here, listed former Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric as the most likely choice to succeed McCone. Gilpatric resigned a year to resume his law practice here.

The White House refused to confirm or deny the reports.

President Johnson, informed officials said, would be influenced in a final decision on McCone's resignation by when he could obtain the services of a fully qualified successor.

McCone, at 62, has held positions of high responsibility under the last four presidents.

In private life he is a West Coast industrialist with extensive interests in such fields as steel, insurance and banking. His home is in San Marino, Calif.

"As things stand now, South Viet Nam is lost. Our only hope is the salvation that might come as the result of a final showdown between the United States and the great Communist powers."

Despite these arguments, many officials here believe expanding the war into North Viet Nam would have little effect on the war in the South. For one thing, it is doubtful that Hanoi could turn off the Viet Cong's campaign even if it wanted to.

The Viet Cong's strength has been broadened to some extent by infiltrators from North Viet Nam, and the rate of infiltration reportedly has increased in the past year. The Viet Cong also has been receiving limited quantities of arms and ammunition from outside the country.

Political and military guidance also has continued to flow from Hanoi to the Viet Cong through advisers and organizers sent to the South.

Despite these contacts with Hanoi, the Viet Cong remains essentially a South Vietnamese organization. The Viet Cong gets its food from peasants and the overwhelming majority of its weapons from government posts it overruns.

Some feel that rather than discouraging the Viet Cong, the bombing of cities in the North would only spur the guerrillas to greater efforts against Americans and would enlist many fence-sitters on the Viet Cong side.

And the possibility of halting Viet Cong infiltration of men and material by bombing seems small in view of the difficulty of spotting jungle routes and depots used by the guerrillas.

New Exercise
Devices are Very Popular

By ELEANOR ROSS
Moderate exercise performed daily is infinitely more rewarding and helpful than violent exercise done sporadically.

In addition to walking or swimming—two of the best and most common body conditioners—a certain amount of exercise on a machine is excellent.

For one thing, we can make use of such a device when we can't get in much walking or a swim. And such mechanical exercise aids need not be expensive. You'll find some of them in the notions department of your favorite store. As our readers know by now, we are a notions department fan these days, for it seems that this store department includes just about everything and at a decent price tag.

Among the many items coming into the notions department are the increasingly popular exercise bicycles. As we said, they are invaluable as supplements to proper exercise and diet control.

One of the lowest priced is a 3-way bike that sells under 10 dollars. This all-chrome model tones and trims the body in a healthful manner.

We tried one out after a bout of housework, and it actually refreshed us—so news of such a bike has a place in a how-to-do household column. The more ambitious exerciser can pedal her way to muscle tone and a more relaxed overall body feeling with a new 3-way row and pedal bicycle exerciser waiting her in her favorite store's notions department.

The user rows to slim the midriff section and pedals for all-over muscle tone and for trimmer thighs and legs. This one goes for less than 13 dollars. It is sturdily built and carries a guarantee against all defects.

Another bike is the pony-cycle, an exercise aid that works on body weight leverage. This is quite a model, and it sells at around $35.

We come to the electric bicycle, until now a very expensive exercise aid that really does a superlative job of muscle toning and body conditioning, not to mention slimming. On the market at present is one such model that sells for less than $140.

So let's get away from the bikes and on to the belts. Available at notions counters is the belt massager. Various models sell from around 30 to 70 dollars.

For those who want to take things easy in their efforts to keep healthy, there is the slant board. Millions of devotees swear by its daily use, and these include many famous entertainment figures with beautiful figures. Whether for circulation, exercise or relaxation daily use of a slant board is prescribed by many physicians and health experts. One manufacturer recommends daily 15-minute sessions on a slant board.

As the board reverses the pull of gravity on the entire body and the bloodstream, physical relief and relaxation are said to replace tired, aching joints.

Well, anyway, the boards are waiting at prices that range from around 13 to 30 dollars.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

He's Distracted!

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a small problem compared to others, but it is still a problem I play in the symphony orchestra, and a woman who has a season ticket sits in the front row at every performance. She is very careless about her position. Abby, the way she sits, I mean. This is very embarrassing to

Latest New Electrical Appliances

By ELEANOR ROSS

Automation is at home in the home with a variety of wonderful electrical appliances. Two of the latest entries in the small appliance field are the electric slicing knife and the shoeshine unit—described by retailers as "hot items" with a big future.

While precision carving is its chief function, the electric knife also slices such varied foods as hard salami, heavy cheeses, tomatoes, and even that difficult-to-handle, fluffy angel food cake.

Models differ in design and detail, but operate similarly—by means of a grip-handle switch or a thumb-control button on the handle, and a blade that slices automatically with out pressure.

Some are battery-operated, others have cords that vary in length.

Different makes offer such special features as twin reciprocating stainless steel blades which work simultaneously, one forward and the other back; blades with a scalloped edge on one side and a fine serrated edge on the other; and a dual control switch in the handle.

One electric knife, which uses heat to cut through frozen foods, has a push-button on the heat-proof handle to switch the temperature up to 500 degrees F.

The stationary blade with the saw-tooth or serrated edges may be used for any type of food and is said to seal in juices as it slices hot meat.

Manufacturers hasten to point out that these appliances are no more hazardous than any conventional knife.

Blades can be detached from their handles, washed in hot suds, rinsed with hot water, wiped dry and replaced. The handles should not be submerged, but can be wiped off with a sudsy cloth or sponge.

All parts should be thoroughly dry before they are reassembled and used. Incidentally, the stainless steel blades never need to be scoured or sharpened.

Automatic shoe-shine equipment comes in plug-in or battery-powered models.

Higher priced electric units offer such features as a 13 inch power handle that can be strapped to the case for off-the-foot shoe care, a hard-bristle brush for removing mud and cleaning suede, powder-puff shaped spinning applicators, motor hair polishing discs, buffing wheels or rotary roll-type buffers.

Some units include extra brushes, applicators and polish. One feather-weight polisher, classified as a shoeshiner, can also be used to shine silver, furniture and cars.

Applicators, buffing "bonnets" and brushes are detachable from frames or bases and need to be washed promptly in hot suds to remove traces of polish and dye.

After rinsing, they need thorough drying. The plastic cases should be wiped often with a sudsy sponge.

Next time you want to skewer and broil scallops, try marinating the seafood in French dressing before cooking.

Man Injured Pushing Auto

A 31-year-old Columbus man was injured yesterday in a two-car collision on Route 23 while trying to start a car by pushing it down the traveled portion of the highway.

The accident was just north of Route 22 at 6 p. m. during yesterday evening's sleet and rainfall.

Arnold Shortridge, 31, of Columbus was taken to Berger Hospital where he was treated for contusions and a possible mild concussion.

The State Highway Patrol said Shortridge was helping push an auto operated by Frank Shortridge. They were trying to start it after it had stalled.

A CAR driven by Robert Hulse, 36, Route 3, came onto the highway from Route 22. Hulse failed to see the other auto until it was too late to avoid a collision.

Patrolmen said Frank Shortridge, 29, of Columbus, was to be cited into Circleville Municipal Court for stopping on a traveled portion of the highway.

Patrolmen investigated two other accidents during the evening, both apparently caused by icy road conditions. There were no injuries reported.

JFK Center Described As Living Force for Art

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, presiding at ground breaking for a national cultural center that will perpetuate the name of John F. Kennedy, said Wednesday will "bring together the worlds of poetry and power — to the benefit of each."

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts will rise on the banks of the Potomac a short distance upstream from the Lincoln Memorial. It was, Johnson said, conceived under the Eisenhower administration, encouraged by the late President Kennedy, and named in Kennedy's memory by act of Congress.

The center, Johnson predicted, will become a living force for encouraging art, an institution that will come "to reflect and advance the greatness of America," that will "symbolize our belief that the world of creation and thought are at the core of our civilization."

The $46 million center will give Washington, for the first time, a focal point for cultural activities and the arts comparable with those of other national capitals.

Far too often, Johnson said, American actors and singers and musicians must travel to other countries to be heard.

Now, he said, they will have a stage in the capital of their own nation.

Sen. elect Robert F. Kennedy shares in the ceremonies on the banks of the Potomac and actors Sir John Gielgud and Jason Robards Jr. read from the late president's speeches and his favorite passages from Shakespeare.

The symbolic spade wielded by Johnson is the same gold-plated tool used 50 years ago and half a mile down river at ground-breaking ceremonies for the Lincoln Memorial.

Under the great roof of the Kennedy center — part of which

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, repudiated in most of the past 32 years about as thoroughly as possible in American politics, are still confused and divided almost a month after one of their worst calamities.

They need more than some kind of agreement among themselves to end their intraparty strife. They need a policy and an attitude giving voters far more confidence in them than has been demonstrated these past 32 years.

Only in this way can the two-party system work, with voters willing to entrust control and direction of the government to either party at fairly regular intervals.

Otherwise, Republicans are doomed to remain a minority party in danger of disintegrating altogether.

The confusion and division were illustrated again this week when on the same day:

1. Sen. Barry Goldwater, defeated for the presidency in November, stood firm against any other Republicans' attempt to throw out his hand-picked chairman of the party's national committee, 38-year-old Dean Burch.

2. Charles H. Percy, the defeated Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, said he thought Burch no longer could successfully lead the party and called for a change in Republican policy.

Burch, fervent believer in Goldwater's brand of Republicanism, is inescapably linked with more than just the senator's disastrous 15-million-vote defeat by President Johnson last month.

The Republicans lost more than the presidency. In Congress, where they had been a minority party since 1954, they became even more of a minority by losing 38 seats in the House and probably two in the Senate.

If the Republican National Committee fails to give Burch a vote of confidence when it meets next month, this can be interpreted as a repudiation not only of Goldwater and his kind of conservatism but of those sharing his views.

Goldwater said the anti-Burchers on the 132-member committee don't have enough votes to get rid of the young Tucson attorney whom he chose to head the committee after his own presidential nomination in July.

At that time the committee elected Burch to a four-year term at $30,000 a year, which would seem to give him good reason for thinking he had a right to want to make the committee stick to its contract.

Nevertheless, it would be embarrassing for him, the party, and any hope of party unity if a majority of the committee gave him a vote of no confidence and he still refused to step down. However, he has indicated he would resign if the committee voted no confidence.

And this is only part of the soul-searching going on within the Republican ranks.

For instance: Republican governors meet this Friday and Saturday in Denver to examine the party wreckage and try to think of some way to put it back on its feet.

Republicans have had small success wooing the voters in the years since 1932 when Franklin D. Roosevelt won the presidency and Democrats got overwhelming control of Congress.

Today is Thursday, Dec. 3, the 338th day of 1964. There are 28 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1915, the government announced it had requested the recall of Capt. Franz von Papen and Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, the German military and naval attaches. They were accused of improper activities, including sabotage plots aimed at hampering munitions production.

Canadians Determined To Stay Independent of United States

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following, fourth of five articles, details common Canadian complaints about U.S. influence.

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are determined not to let their country become a U.S. satellite — or even to have the appearance of being one.

They have demonstrated their political independence by trading with Cuba and Red China, and they are moving toward the eventual recognition of the Peking government.

But they are tied closely to the United States both through the North American defense system and through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since last year, they have had American-owned nuclear warheads at two Canadian missile bases.

For this reason, they are extremely sensitive to U.S. foreign policy decisions.

On economic matters, Canadian nationalists find it much more difficult to assert their independence. The two countries do more business with each other than with anybody else.

About 60 per cent of all Canadian exports go to the United States, and about two-thirds of all Canadian imports are from the United States.

One of the common complaints of Canadians is that Americans own so much of their country that Canada is no longer master of its own house.

There have been efforts by both main political parties to discourage foreign investments, but the pressure of provincial governments and of business was so great that the proposed measures were dropped.

At present, U.S. investments are increasing.

Nonresidents — mostly Americans — control 70 per cent of the investments in Canadian petroleum and natural gas, 59 per cent in mining and smelting and 60 per cent in manufacturing.

Blind Postmaster

FORT FRASER, B. C. (AP) — The postmaster in this northern British Columbia community is a blind man.

J. C. Matthews depends on his wife to sort the mail, but he knows everyone in the district by voice and knows where each individual's mail slot is located.

Six years ago, Boy Scouts bought Matthews a seeing-eye dog. But now the dog, Roamer, is apparently going blind and a spokesman for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind says the institute is sad and worried about the possibility that the postmaster might lose his "great companion."

Actress Does Top Job As Lonely Evie Jackson

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Evie Jackson is the kind of a woman who knows everyone in her car by the time she gets off the train. She telephones welcome messages to be delivered to her self, so people at the hotel won't think she's lonely. She knows every bellboy by name and has herself paged in the lobby.

She is a smalltown postmaster — she prefers the title to postmistress which sounds cky to her. In New York on a convention, she strives desperately to involve herself with other people's lives and to avoid the clutches of three old-maid harpies who want her in their bridge-and-gossip matches. She also tries to avoid the trap of another convention idyll with a handsome married man.

Evie Jackson is one of the world's lonely crowd. She is portrayed brilliantly by Geraldine Page in a fine new film bearing the innocuous title of "Dear Heart." The original title, "The Out - of - Towners," seems more fitting, but Warner Brothers apparently made the switch to cash in on the haunting title theme written by Henry Mancini and Livingston Evans.

"Dear Heart" by any name seems to be the most promising sleeper since "Marty," which it resembles.

What makes it so good? In the beginning it was a script by Tad Mosel which is human without being sentimental. It tells parallel stories of Evie Jackson, the busybody who admits she "goes on too long," and Harry Mork, the greeting-card salesman who has been promoted to a New York job and plans to marry an Altoona, Penn., widow. Inevitably, the destinies of Evie and Harry converge.

Geraldine Page has won Academy nominations for three of her four previous films — "Hondo," "Summer and Smoke," "Sweet Bird of Youth" — and she is likely to make it four out of five with her Evie Jackson.

Glenn Ford makes the most of his role as the romantically confused salesman, providing as convincing a performance as he has given in years.

The rest of the cast performs ably, especially Angela Lansbury as Ford's too-understanding fiancée, and Michael Anderson Jr. as her kookie son.

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — It was the defending champion United States, with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, against the world today with the start of the prestige-packed Canada Cup golf matches.

Two-man teams representing 32 nations, plus twosomes from Hawaii and Puerto Rico, were set to tee off over the lush green acres of the Royal Kaanapali Golf Course, one that measures 7,215 yards, with par 36-36-72.

There will be 18 holes each day, concluding Sunday.

Butkus Signs With Chicago

Leagues Equal In Choice Picks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dick Butkus, one of the prime targets in the multi million-dollar pro football war, will sign with the Chicago Bears today and end several days of intrigue in which the New York Jets tried to lure him into the rival American League on a lateral from Denver.

While the National League won the struggle for Butkus' services, the American League pulled even in signing competitive first round draft choices when the Houston Oilers signed the league's No. 1 selection—Baylor pass-catching whiz Larry Elkins.

Butkus' decision to join the Bears—a major score for the National League in the battle for big names—came almost simultaneously Wednesday with the revelation that Denver had traded its rights to the standout Illinois linebacker.

At his home in Champaign, Ill., Butkus told The Associated Press:

"Yes, I definitely have decided to play for the Chicago Bears and definitely will sign with them."

In Denver, Broncos President Cal Kunz said Butkus wanted to play in a big city "so Denver gave its rights to him to the New York Jets. I can't say anything right now about our deal with New York."

Butkus disclaimed any knowledge of the transaction. "I really don't know anything about that," he said. "I have not talked with anyone from the Jets."

Butkus was a first-round selection of the Bears while the Broncos, who had traded away their No. 1 pick in the AFL draft, made him their first pick on the second round.

The Oilers, signing their No. 1 draft choice for the fifth time in six years, whipped the NFL's Green Bay Packers for Elkins' services while reuniting last year's sensational Don Trull to Elkins' passing combination.

Trull, now a rookie with the Oilers, was the Baylor quarterback in 1963. Besides Trull there were other lures for Elkins. According to the Houston Post, he signed a contract calling for a $35,000 bonus and three years at $30,000 a year — a $125,000 package.

Elkins' signing gave the AFL a 2-2 split with the NFL in the signing of players both leagues drafted on the first round.

total scores of the two players. The companion award is the International Trophy which goes to the low medalist.

Palmer and Nicklaus won the Canada Cup last year in Paris, and while Palmer has yet to capture the International Trophy, he sounded a warning Wednesday.

Arnie, with an abbreviated version of his famed army at his heels, broke the course record in the pro - amateur prelude with a seven-under-par 31-34-65.

Best-ball low-score honors, 62, went to Palmer and his amateur partner, Howard Clark of New York, president of the International Golf Association.

Nicklaus had an individual 72. Runners-up to Palmer were Bruce Devlin, Australia, 69, and at 70, Ted Makalena of Hawaii and Chief Sayed of Egypt.

The United States team faces stern opposition in its quest for a seventh victory from such nations as Spain, South Africa, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, to list a few.

Arnie Plans Easier Time

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP)—Arnie's Army can relax — the general is going to start taking it easier.

"I'm through knocking my brains out — next year I'll cut my tournament schedule almost in half," Arnold Palmer said today, before teeing off in the Canada Cup International Matches — his 30th tournament of the year.

"For 10 years I've been playing in 25 or more tournaments every season. It's too much. I love golf, I don't want to get to the point that it is no longer fun but drudgery."

"Next year I'll limit myself to about 15 tournaments — picking them — and that'll be my diet from now on. I'm getting too old and tired to try to keep up with these young bucks week-in and week-out."

Palmer played in 26 PGA tour tournaments, visited Australia and Japan and competed in the World Match Play Championship in England. Besides this, he played television matches, appeared in numerous exhibitions and kept close watch on his myriad multi million-dollar enterprises.

Catcher Raymond Suarez, Florida State senior, and pitcher Joe Hennessey, St. Louis University graduate, have signed with Kansas City and will report to the A's minor league base at Daytona Beach next spring.

Buckeyes, Dayton Open With Strong Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two of Ohio's college basketball giants, Ohio State and Dayton, have got their seasons off to a fine start with decisive opening game routs.

The Buckeyes, who are aiming for their sixth straight Big Ten Conference title, whetted their teeth on South Dakota with an 86-54 triumph Wednesday night, while the Flyers, frequent visitors to the National Invitation Tournament, whipped Niagara, 95-64.

Those games were the highlights of Wednesday night's Ohio card.

In two Ohio conference games, Wooster downed Heidelberg, 70-56, and Ohio Wesleyan rallied to defeat Mount Union, 80-71.

In other games, John Carroll smashed Walsh, 93-56; Bluffton edged Ohio Northern 85-83; Concordia of Indiana handed an 84-74 opening game loss to Defiance; Findlay rolled over Tri-State of Indiana, 84-79, and Steubenville downed Kentucky Wesleyan, 73-67.

All 15 Buckeye players got in to battle invading South Dakota and five of them scored in double figures. Al Peters paced Ohio State with 19 points, followed by Dick Ricketts and Ron Sepic with 16 and Al Rowley and Bob Dove with 10.

The Buckeyes hit an even 50 per cent from the floor, 33 of 66, and held a 44-26 half time lead.

The Dayton victory was gratifying for Don Donohoe, his first as official head coach. He took over as acting coach last season when the late Tom Blackburn was hospitalized with cancer.

The Flyers, who were a bit ragged in the first half, were kept in the game with visiting Niagara by their giant center, Henry Finkel, until they came alive midway through the first half, went ahead at 20-19 on Finkel's free throw and surged from then on. The 6-foot-11 center paced all scorers with 32 points.

All-America Bill Bradley of Princeton and Dave Bing of Syracuse displayed their basketball finesse to the nth degree, but the headlines went to Maryland's Nil Brayton.

Brayton flipped in a 40-foot, one-hand push shot with just four seconds left on the clock to give the Terps a 72-71 victory over Penn State.

Maryland led by 70-67 with 29 seconds left, but Carver Clinton's basket and two free throws by Ray Saunders put the Nittany Lions ahead with 11 seconds to go. Then came Brayton's game-winning one-hander from near midcourt.

Clarke Breaks 3-Mile Record

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Ron Clarke of Australia smashed the world record for three miles tonight, running the distance in 13 minutes, 7.6 seconds. The time was 2.4 seconds faster than old record set by Murray Halberg of New Zealand in 1961.

The Australian long-distance champion spread-eagled the field, which included Halberg. Clarke, who had to contend with a stiff wind, won by more than 100 yards from Halberg and Tony Cook of Australia.

Catcher Raymond Suarez, Florida State senior, and pitcher Joe Hennessey, St. Louis University graduate, have signed with Kansas City and will report to the A's minor league base at Daytona Beach next spring.

Bradley paced Princeton's Ivy League champs to an 83-74 triumph over Lafayette with 29 points. He got 10 of them in the last five minutes after the Leopards rallied to within one point at 68-67.

Bing tossed in 20 points and handed out 11 assists in leading the seventh-ranked Syracuse team to an easy 127-67 triumph over American U.

Kansas State, No. 8, the only other team in the pre-season Associated Press Top Ten to play, whipped Creighton 96-82 behind Jeff Simons' 22 points.

Tennessee, rated a title threat in the Southeastern Conference, and Texas Tech, favored to win the Southwest Conference, impressed in their openers. The Volunteers crushed Richmond 97-66 as Red Robbins scored 18 points. The Red Raiders walked Norman Reuther's 20 points.

Hull said the AAU tentatively plans to match the men's and women's national champions and runners-up from Poland, West Germany and the United States in a July 10-11 meet in Los Angeles. It will be a tune-up for the dual meet between the United States and Russia in Moscow later that month.

Meanwhile, the squabble over control of open amateur athletics in the United States between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the AAU was at a standstill today.

Each side agreed to meet Dec. 16 in Chicago, but only on its terms. Neither gave any sign of giving in to the other, so most officials saw little likelihood the meeting would be held.

AAU Urges U.S. Join More Games

HOUSTON (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union feels the United States shouldn't follow its old habit of letting down in international competition after the Olympic Games but should work even harder, an AAU spokesman says.

Already much of the business at the annual AAU meeting here has been directed toward that goal. For one thing, the AAU has agreed on a 1965 triangular track meet with Poland, West Germany and the United States.

Don Hull, AAU executive director, said following a meeting of the foreign-relations committee Wednesday that the plan is for 1965 to be "the largest and best ever for international competition the year after the Olympic Games."

The United States, he said, has a habit of letting down after the Games and then scrambling back the year before the next Olympics.

"This doesn't lend to keeping the United States on top," he added.

Hull said the AAU tentatively plans to match the men's and women's national champions and runners-up from Poland, West Germany and the United States in a July 10-11 meet in Los Angeles. It will be a tune-up for the dual meet between the United States and Russia in Moscow later that month.

ese support of the Viet Cong and of North Vietnamese forces in, and passing through, the territory of Laos in violation of the Geneva accords of 1962."

The State Department said Wednesday that the evidence of North Vietnamese support and infiltration into South Viet Nam is "extensive and complex" but no figures were given.

Khiem said that 60 per cent of the infiltrators have been military cadets and 40 per cent are civilians who are trained at organizing Communist cells at the village and provincial levels.

"According to captured documents and word from prisoners of war, the infiltration increased over a three year period of 1961-1963," Khiem said. "According to the figures we got we understand North Viet Nam sent between 30,000 and 40,000 people."

Khiem said the Ho Chi Minh Trail begins at Vinh, a seaport in North Viet Nam, crosses into Laos at Mui Gia Pass and runs into southeastern Laos to important supply and concentration points at Tchepone, Muong and Nung and Attapu.

"Recently Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, rightist deputy prime minister of Laos and minister of defense, said North Viet Nam has some five divisions — 20,000 men — in the territory of Laos and two-thirds of these forces are being used to protect the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

"On the supply roads, according to the information we have, North Viet Nam is using Soviet-built Molotov trucks.

"This convoy of trucks is supported by armored cars or tanks," Khiem said.

He said this information had been given to him personally by royal Lao army officers from Savannakhet, one of the southern military bases of the Lao government.

Khiem said that in the military field in South Viet Nam, "We are quite sure that the Communists are not able to win the war."

But he said the political situation still is confused because full agreement has not been reached among all political leaders on a unified point of view as to the best way of fighting the Communist Viet Cong.

"It is sure that the Communists will take advantage of this confusion to make the situation more difficult," he said.

Khiem said the Vietnamese army would never back any nationalist political figures who do not take a very clear position against the Communists. The army would not back leaders who favor neutralization "or going along with President Charles de Gaulle," he said.

Khiem is a prominent Buddhist and his words appeared directed against the reported efforts of some Buddhists to replace the present government with a neutralist regime.

Khiem said the reason power was turned over to the civilians is because "we visualize the kind of war we are facing now is not merely a military operation, but a political, social and economic war.

"The army cannot fight this war alone. I think we have to give reason to the people to fight against communism and show them that after we win, they will have a better life."

News of World in Brief

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Percy Kilbride, who won fame in the movies as "Pa Kettle," is recuperating in a rest home from brain surgery performed last month in a Los Angeles hospital.

Kilbride, 76, was transferred to the home Wednesday. The brain surgery resulted from injuries suffered when he was stuck by a train. Doctors said he is partially paralyzed and unable to speak.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Franciscans can look forward to their first movie-going weekend in nearly three weeks and downtown merchants hope for a business revival. Most of the city's major first-run houses are expected to open tonight following settlement of a labor dispute.

CINCINNATI (AP) — John A. Wiethe, himself a defendant in a libel suit, has filed a $100,000 libel action against Vincent H. Beckman, and Al Bilik, president of the Cincinnati AFL-CIO Labor Council. Beckman unseated Wiethe last May as Hamilton County Democratic chairman.

The suit filed in Common Pleas Court Wednesday alleges that Beckman and Bilik, also a Democrat, have harmed Wiethe's reputation by published statements. Wiethe was named defendant in a $450,000 libel suit filed several months ago by Congressman-elect John J. Gilligan. Gilligan claims Wiethe had stories published, saying the Gilligan Funeral Home refused to bury a Negro.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Albany's two daily newspapers will obtain an injunction Saturday to limit picketing by the striking AFL-CIO American Newspaper Guild.

Management and the union, however, moved toward resumption of negotiations today—the 12th day of the strike.

State Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane Wednesday night ordered an injunction to restrain mass picketing and to keep pickets from doing anything that might cause disorder.

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Twenty-six passengers were killed Wednesday when Communist guerrillas mined a bus near Tavoy, 300 miles southwest of Rangoon.

After the mine exploded, the guerrillas hiding nearby stripped the victims of all valuables and cut off the ears of dead women to remove their earrings.

BERLIN (AP) — Two East

German border guards were caught by their Communist comrades early today as they tried to escape over the Berlin wall, West Berlin police reported.

Two guards discovered the pair hiding near the border fortifications in the north of the city. Apparently they were waiting for a chance to climb over to West Berlin.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Republican Governors Association hopes to set up a fully staffed headquarters operation in Washington from which it can exercise considerable influence on party policies and activities, the New York Times said today.

A Denver dispatch said the headquarters proposal is one of several that the executive committee of the association will offer at a two-day conference of Republican governors and governors-elect which opens in Denver Friday.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A faster method of feeding information to computers has resulted in an annual savings of $100,000 to the Navy and a presidential citation to the Johns Hopkins University senior who devised it.

Christopher S. Caldwell, who worked out the system last summer, will receive the award from President Johnson Friday. Explaining the process, Caldwell said there are two languages with which instructions can be given a computer, "one which is easy to write, but less efficient, and one that is hard to write, but more efficient. I mixed the two to get the best of both."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of Education reports a 10 per cent rise in college enrollments in the past year. The total this fall is a record 5,320,294 students.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked for public support for Radio Free Europe as the voice of truth and freedom in Eastern Europe where, he said, the "people — and some of their rulers — long for deeper, steadier and more natural relations with the West."

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — Mrs. E. C. Toner, vice president of Anderson Newspapers Inc. — the Morning Herald and afternoon Bulletin — died Wednesday. Mrs. Toner, a onetime society editor and an active newspaperwoman more than 60 years, was believed in her mid-90s. Her husband died in 1927.

800 California Students Hauled to Prison Farm

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — More than 800 University of California students staged an all-night sit-in inside the school's administration building until they were arrested en masse today by highway patrol officers, police from nearby cities and sheriff's deputies.

A phalanx of police cordoned off the buildings—Sprout Hall—to sympathizers and onlookers massed during the early morning hours. Other officers took students—some protesting limply—to buses waiting to carry the rebels to the county prison farm. More than 100 police officers were involved.

The students refused Chancellor Edward Strong's plea that they disperse peacefully. The young men and women had gathered in Sprout Hall to protest the administration's refusal al that they give in to demands that charges be dropped against four students.

The students are leaders of the Free Speech Movement which has been demanding "full political rights" on the campus. The acknowledged leader of the movement, Mario Savio, was among those carted away to jail on the first bus.

The arrests were ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown shortly after midnight.

The university had charged Savio and three others — Art Goldberg, his sister Jackie, and Brian Turner — with violating university rules forbidding on-campus membership and fund solicitation for off-campus organizations.

The arresting process was slow. Police moved in teams to drag limp bodies from the building's fourth floor. The teams slapped number cards on the youths, photographed them and whisked them away to the buses.

Hundreds of others were sleeping, cuddled together for warmth under blankets and makeshift covers, on the third and second floors of the large building. At a second-floor window, members of the student body climbed ropes into the hall to join in the protest. Two discovered, the influx was greater than the evacuation.

Originally 1,000 students crowded the hall, but many left when the campus police ordered the doors locked Wednesday night. Those who remained were not arrested but police warned them to leave.

They refused. They prepared for a long stay. The Free Speech Movement supplied those trapped in the building chanted and sang.

Then early today the word came that the Alameda County sheriff's office, the State Highway Patrol, and Berkeley and campus police were preparing to clear the building and arrest its occupants.

Chancellor Strong asked the demonstrators to "immediately disperse."

The chancellor's plea was met with vacuous stares and passive rejection.

Court Drops Law License

Noted Attorney Called Unethical

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Carlton S. Dargusch, a well known attorney and trustee of Ohio State University, has been suspended indefinitely from practicing law by the Ohio Supreme Court for unethical conduct.

Dargusch—a lawyer since 1925 a brigadier general in World War II and a frequent visitor to the office of Gov. James A. Rhodes — received the severe punishment Wednesday for his alleged conduct in handling the affairs of the Sunday Creek Coal Co.

The Supreme Court's unanimous decision climaxed a long investigation, instituted by the Columbus Bar Association, into his long association with the firm, which was founded in 1927 by the late John S. Jones of Granville.

The bar association had charged him with 14 specifications of misconduct, and a board of commissioners had recommended that the high court give a public reprimand.

But the court decided on the more severe punishment of indefinite suspension because, it said, "A public reprimand is not commensurate with the gravity of the respondent's violations of the canons of professional ethics."

Dargusch, who was unavailable for comment on the suspension, served from 1938 to October 1959 as general counsel for Sunday Creek Coal Co., of which 90 per cent of the stock was held in trust by the founders' daughters, Virginia Jones Olmsted, Sallie Jones Sexton and Frances Jones Lomas.

The Columbus attorney served from 1951 to 1959 as chairman of the firm's board and as a trustee of the three trusts and voted the trust stock at shareholders' meetings.

The court said that in three specifications of misconduct, it was shown that during that eight-year period Dargusch caused Sunday Creek to pay his personal club dues and bills, liquor bills and travel and entertainment expenses without specific authorization of the firm.

He also was charged with arranging a loan to the coal firm by one of the trusts and that his law firm charged the trust for legal services. He also voted the trust stock at a 1957 shareholders' meeting in a way particularly beneficial to himself and without consulting beneficiaries or without their knowledge, it was charged.

Dargusch is a retired brigadier general who served as deputy director of the National Selective Service System during World War II.
